Intuitive Investments Group plc
("IIG" or the "Company")

Investment in Ocutec Limited

Intuitive Investments Group plc (AIM: IIG) ("IIG" or the "Company"), a closed-end investment company focussed on the life sciences sector, announces an investment of £250,000 to acquire 156,250 new ordinary shares in Ocutec Limited ("Ocutec"), representing a 6.04 per cent. interest in Ocutec's enlarged share capital, as part of a £1.36 million fundraising round.

Ocutec has patented technology covering the formulation of novel contact lens products, contact lens comfort solutions and injection moulding technology for rapid manufacturing. Ocutec is based in Glasgow, and has been operating since 2006, having been spun out of the University of Strathclyde. Further information can be found on its website: <https://www.ocutec.com/>.

According to its unaudited management accounts for the six months to 31 October 2021, Ocutec had no revenue and a loss after tax of £377,386 and, at 31 October 2021, had unaudited net assets of £4,447,137.

Stewart White, Chairman of IIG's Advisory Panel and a member of the Company's Investment Team, acts as a consultant to Ocutec.

As part of Ocutec's fundraising, Robert Naylor, IIG's CEO, and Malcolm Gillies, IIG's Senior Non-Executive Director, have each personally invested £50,000 giving each of them a 1.21 per cent. interest in Ocutec's enlarged share capital. Accordingly, neither Robert Naylor nor Malcolm Gillies voted as members of the Board approving the Investment.
